We are pleased to present the solo exhibition by artist Kaeka Michael Betero In the middle of the Pacific. The artist Kaeka Michael Betero uses photography to represent the threat to homes and inhabitants. His authentic and genuine approach shows reality as it is. In the great vastness of the Pacific Ocean, the tiny island country Kiribati is barely noticeable on the map. However, the rising ocean level caused by climate change is threatening the existence of Kiribati and is in danger of disappearing into the Pacific Ocean forever.
